

BORA

We have worked with Bora for many years now because we love his unique jewelry and the way that he thinks out of the box. Born in Turkey, Bora's experience living and being immersed in Mediterranean culture is one of the many things that inspires the jewelry that he makes today. His dream when coming to the US was to be a musician but his creativity and imagination led him towards jewelry design, allowing him to use his engineering background to carefully craft his designs with close attention to detail and dimensions. His favorite material to "play" with is copper as he appreciates the historic quality of the metal, and his pieces are an abstract and interesting addition to any look.
